21 Lost on Skyliner

DENVER, Jan. 31 (AP)—A United Air Lines plane was reported long overdue at Denver today and hope for the lives of the 21 persons aboard virtually was abandoned.

An aerial search disclosed what was believed to be the wreckage of the plane high on snow-covered Elk Mountain, 65 miles northwest of Laramie, Wyo.

Capt. Frank Crismon, assistant supervisor of flight operations here, led the search which began at daylight when the plane was several hours overdue here in a flight from Seattle to New York.

About mid-morning he said he sighted a long, wide gash in the deep snow near the top of the mountain which towers 11,125 feet in the eastern fringe of the Rockies. He said broken clouds and a stiff wind made close approach to the peak impossible.

Crismon did not report any sign of fire or a definite sighting of the smashed plane but said he was convinced what he saw marked the crash of the transport. UAL officials here speculated the body of the plane might be buried in deep snow.

Crismon returned to Cheyenne to organize a ground search party but it was expected to be many hours before they could reach the remote Medicine Bow range area.

United's district traffic manager, J. R. Dunlap, said the plane last reported its position over Sinclair, Wyo., at 2:40 a. m. (mountain time). It was due at Denver at 4:20 a. m.

Eighteen passengers and a crew of three were aboard the two-engine Douglas transport, including 12 Army personnel being redeployed. Among civilian passengers were Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bender of Sheffield, Ill., who were married Monday at Twin Falls, Ida., and were en route to Sheffield, Ill., where Bender resided.

Bender recently was discharged from the Navy after overseas service.

United Airlines announced additional civilian passengers aboard were:

H. R. Glover, Vancouver, Wash., bound from Portland to New York.

Mrs. E. H. Blake, Richland, Wash., bound from Pendleton, Ore., to Denver.

William A. Petracek, c/o American overseas, Marvin Whitlock, LaGuardia Field, bound from Seattle to New York.

R. S. Price, 53 E. 67th st., New York, bound from Seattle to Chicago.

Names of the soldiers were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Dunlap said the crew included W. P. Briggs, captain; H. N. Atlar, first officer, and Dorothy Carter, stewardess—all of Portland, Ore. The flight started at Portland at 8:15 last night.

40 Congressmen Urge Steel, GM To End Strikes

By Associated Press

Forty Congressmen called on U. S. Steel and General Motors Corporations today to accept federal recommendations for settling strikes in the steel and auto industries.

At the same time General Motors executives arranged to resume negotiations with the CIO United Auto Workers in Detroit, a spokesman for the CIO Packinghouse Workers contended the government had assumed a "moral obligation" to boost their wages, and CIO President Philip Murray met with Treasury Secretary Vinson.

The Congressmen urged GM to accept a wage increase of 19½ cents an hour and asked U. S. Steel to agree to President Truman's proposal for an 18½ cents hourly wage hike.

Ralph Helstein, counsel for the CIO meat workers, told a federal fact-finding board in Washington the government "now must see to it that equity and justice be done."

He urged the board to recommend a wage settlement on "the national wage pattern which has been established and is in the process of development."

Although the purpose of Murray's visit with Vinson was not officially announced, a treasury official said he understood it concerned existing tax legislation. Murray has contended present tax laws permit the steel industry to derive financial benefits despite the strike.

Also in Detroit, Henry Ford, president of Ford Motor Co., demanded the government lift price controls and warned unless his company could get steel promptly "we will have to shut down completely some time this week."

Of the 54,000 workers laid off in steel related industries because of the walkout of nearly 750,000 CIO steelworkers, about 20,000 were from Ford plants.

Other Ford plant and department shutdowns between now and Feb. 8 due to the steel strike, now in its 11th day, will make idle at least another 10,000 workers.

The country's labor disputes made idle approximately 1,380,000 workers.

GEN. IKE OBLIGES

Gen. Ike in Happy Mood Joshes Vets at Ft. Devens

His world-famous grin working overtime, Gen. Dwight D. (Ike) Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, was in his element today as he toured Ft. Devens separation center, joking with outgoing GI's and wishing them "all the luck in the world" in civilian life.

The soldiers, most of them veterans of the European conflict, were pleasantly surprised to meet the man who led them to overwhelming victory over the Nazis. Gen. Ike moved among them like a fellow-enlisted man, joshing them about their gripes and inquiring as to their future plans.

Fifty men attending the "graduation" exercises at the end of the long separation process got the biggest surprise of all. Unknown to them, Ike sat attentively in the rear of the room as they were given a short talk by an officer preparatory to leaving the Army.

When the officer finished, the five-starred general shed his overcoat and went to the rostrum to talk to the men himself.

"I like to have the camp commanders say good-bye for me, but I'm glad to have the opportunity to do it personally," he said, smiling broadly.

Turning serious quickly, he added:

"I thank you for what you've done. I mean that from the bottom of my heart. Call on me for anything and when I can help an ex-soldier, I will."

The general drew hearty laughter from his awed audience when he said:

"No doubt you've written your wives and sweethearts about your gripes and maybe you've even written to me, telling me what a skunk I was."

Eisenhower set a fast pace as he went through the center, stopping long enough to talk to the men as they awaited their turns for processing. He startled them with joking remarks, shoulder pats and by jabbing them playfully in the ribs with his elbow.

The Eisenhower party was met at Ft. Devens gate by Brig. Gen. William C. Crane, commanding officer. The tour was almost entirely free of formality and there was a minimum of customary military fanfare, at the express wish of the visitor.

The general came to Boston to be principal speaker at a testimonial dinner to Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, Boston University president, in Hotel Statler tonight.

In the general's party were Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder of the inspector general's department, Maj. Gen. Alexander Surles of the general staff, Col. James Stack, his aide, and Lt. Col. George W. Mather, transportation officer of the First Service Command.

He was scheduled to return to Boston about 5 p. m. and go to the Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, home of Charles Francis Adams, former Navy Secretary.

Shortly before 7 p. m. he will leave the Adams home for the Statler, where he will take part in the ceremonies marking Dr. Marsh's 20th anniversary as president of Boston University.

Eisenhower will leave South Station for Washington at 11 p. m.

And Ike Is Right

Gen. Eisenhower asked S-Sgt. Joseph Fortier of Bristol, R. I., about his plans as he awaited discharge at Ft. Devens separation center today.

"I'm going to work," Fortier replied.

"Where's your job?" "Ike" asked.

"With General Motors."

"Hell, you're not going back to work right away."

Fortier laughed wryly.

Hope to Settle 2 UNO Disputes

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—United Nations delegates privately expressed hope today that the security council's compromise decision on the Russian-Iranian dispute might point the way to an amicable settlement of the Greek and Indonesian cases which come before the peace agency tomorrow.

Whether the latter two cases can be settled without UNO intervention, however, depends largely upon the Russians, who filed complaints with the council.

United Nations leaders were reported in agreement today on Feb. 9 as the virtually certain date for adjournment of the meeting of the General Assembly.

Immediately after that date all UNO establishments, including the staff and security council, will be moved to the United States to the site still to be selected.

Pastor Dad Admits He Killed Girl

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 31 (AP)—Kent County Prosecutor Menso R. Bolt announced today the Rev. Frank E. Siple had admitted giving poison to his daughter, Dorothy Ann, who died in 1939 at the age of 17.

The Rev. Mr. Siple, 53-year-old pastor of the Southland Park Church of God, made the admission, Bolt said, when confronted with a report from a State toxicologist that examination of the girl's vital organs revealed arsenic.

The body was exhumed for the examination.

Prosecutor Bolt said the Rev. Mr. Siple, in a signed confession, declared he gave his daughter an initial dose of poison on a Sunday morning, July 31, 1939, and then went to preach a sermon to his congregation.

Bolt said he will ask a murder warrant against the minister later today.

Following the signing of the confession, assistant prosecutor Adrian Verspoor asked Siple:

"Did you have any urge after all these years to tell this secret to anyone?"

Verspoor said Siple replied:

"No, I never did, but I was relieved after I told it."

Siple now is awaiting trial on a charge of assault with intent to kill an elder in the church, Lyle Doan, 42, with a 14-inch iron pipe.

The death certificate of the pastor's daughter, a high school graduate, listed coronary thrombosis and nervous vomiting as the cause of death.

Bolt said Siple told this story of the girl's death:

Dorothy Ann had been ill frequently and on July 31, Siple gave her a dose of poison about 8 a. m. and a capsule of it at midnight with a glass of water.

Siple's second wife and a nurse who had been caring for the girl were asleep at the time. He awakened them and told them:

"I think daughter's passing away."

The prosecutor said Siple told him he had given the girl the poison "because she was mentally incompetent and I didn't want her to go to an asylum."

The alleged attack on Doan took place New Year's Eve when the two were riding in his car. Siple was found overcome by gas in the basement of his home a few minutes after Doan reported to police. Officers said the gas jets had been turned on.

A few days later, Bolt reported, a box of candy which the elder told him he had received from Siple at Christmas had been examined by the state laboratory at Lansing and was found to contain sufficient quantities of the drug phenobarbital to cause death.

The minister has five other daughters, one single, two married and two in the armed services.

Bolt said Siple, when confronted today with the toxicologist's report, said:

"Oh, my God, no. That can't be true."

A few minutes later, the prosecutor said, the pastor began his confession.

DYING GIRL SEES DAD—Cpl. Earl K. Dildine of Detroit, who was flown home from Japan, holds his daughter, Sandra, 3, after she is released from the hospital, unmindful that death is near. Sandra's illness is diagnosed as a malignant tumor and doctors have sought since September to save her life. Now they say there is no hope.

A Real Bathroom Novelty

BURLINGTON, Ia., Jan. 31 (AP)—"Get over here quickly if you want to harvest your wheat crop," is what Harold Miller telephoned the man who replastered the bathroom in the Miller home three weeks ago.

When the plastered arrived he found Harold hadn't been kidding—two-inch sprouts of wheat protruded from the walls and ceiling of the room. Instead of the sky-blue color the room had been painted after the plastering, the bright green of the sprouts dazzled the eye.

Investigation disclosed a substitute sand substance used in the plaster had been shipped to the distributor in a freight car formerly used for shipping wheat. The moisture in the plaster and the warm temperature in the bathroom did the rest.

The plasterer harvested the crop.

2 Girls Arrive As Stowaways

Two British girls, one seeking reunion with her Army boy friend and the other looking for a home, arrived as stowaways in Boston today when the Liberty ship Wallace M. Tyler docked at Castle island after a 16-day journey from Birkenhead, England.

The girls were Patrica Shepard, 18, of Liverpool, and Judy Buckley, 17, of Bournemouth.

"I came over here to look for my boy friend," said Patricia. "He's a Second Armored Division veteran, Howard Farrar of St. Louis. I've lost the address, but I'll find him if they'll let me stay."

She said they had been engaged for 2½ years, that she would be 19 next month and wanted to be married.

"The main reason I came here was to find a home," said Judy. "It's awful in England now. Our home in Swansea was destroyed in an air raid and since my father got out of the Army, he has been living with my brother, sister and me in a single room. I couldn't stand it any longer."

She added that she, too, had a boy friend, PFC Paul Guzman of San Antonio, Tex.

The girls said they walked aboard the ship in Birkenhead in day light and hid in a linen closet until discovered four days after the ship sailed.

Two days later Judy was stricken with appendicitis and, with no doctor aboard, Capt. Sven Ravnevand radioed the United States for advice and was told to administer penicillin. The attack subsided and Judy was able to walk ashore without assistance.

An immigration board, which will hear their pleas late today or tomorrow, probably will order them excluded. They were taken to immigration headquarters in Tremont st.

124 Injured in Falls as Icy Drizzle Perils Hub Travel

Clearing weather was promised for this afternoon as motorists and pedestrians moved cautiously along icy streets and sidewalks.

Up to 9 a. m. the City Hospital reported 112 had been treated for injuries from falls after they had slipped on ice concealed by the falling snow yesterday and last night. The Massachusetts General Hospital reported 12 treated.

The weather bureau announced three and one-half inches of snow had fallen but the depth was reduced when snow changed to rain and freezing drizzle.

The drizzle continued during the morning, making footing difficult and driving hazardous. The Massachusetts Safety Council issued an appeal to motorists to keep off the roads.

At Logan Airport all flights were cancelled until at least 4 p. m. and planes due here from other ports were grounded.

Weather bureau officials predicted the drizzle would end and the skies would clear some time this afternoon with temperatures rising to a high of about 36.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP) — Heavy fog, accompanied by a chilly drizzle, covered the New York area today, disrupting the airline service at LaGuardia Field and ferry traffic in the harbor. Since bad weather set in early yesterday afternoon, 286 commercial flights in and out of New York were cancelled.

Boys on Trial In $47,000 School Fire

Two small boys today went on trial in the juvenile session of Suffolk Superior Court on charges of delinquency in connection with three fires which caused $47,000 damage to the Bowditch School on Green st., Jamaica Plain.

The boys, one 12 and the other 11, both of Jamaica Plain, are alleged by police to have set fires on three occasions last spring in various parts of the school. A third boy involved in the vandalism was sent to Lyman School from West Roxbury Court.

The 12-year-old boy also faces charges as one of a gang of 10 boys who caused $300 damage to a Roanoke st., Jamaica Plain, house owned by Alex Phillips of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay. Cases against the other boys were disposed of in West Roxbury Court.

Police allege that the first fire was started in a telephone booth on the first floor of the school, April 10, 1945, and caused $2000 damage. The second fire on Sunday night, April 15, was started in the auditorium, destroying all school records, maps, movie film and a projector. Firemen estimated damage at $37,000.

The third fire, May 5, according to police, was started in a classroom after paper had been piled in the middle of the floor. This blaze caused $8000 damage.

Two other boys, one 10 and the other nine-years-old, arrested for complicity in these fires were given probation in West Roxbury court.

In the 21-room Phillips house the boys are alleged to have cut up oil paintings, broken into a china cabinet, ruined a $1000 chandelier and stole a bronze statue and an electric meat grinder.

Find Baby's Body Off Moon Island

The body of a baby, believed about three months old, was found frozen and wedged between rocks today on the northeast corner of Moon Island by attendants at the island's pumping station.

Patrolman John R. Saver, of the Quincy police, reported back to headquarters that it was impossible to determine whether the baby was a boy or girl because of its position between the rocks.

Pumping station attendants started to dig the rocks away to extricate the frozen body.

Army Overseas Family Plan Unfair, Congress Is Told

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Objections on grounds of "discrimination" were raised in both Senate and House today to the Army plan for sending families of officers and certain non-coms to overseas theaters at government expense.

The War Department, announcing the plan yesterday, said travel at government expense was authorized by law for dependents of officers, three top ranks of non-commissioned oficers and certain civilian employes o the War Department. Families of other enlisted men would have to pay their own way.

Senator Lucas (D.) of Illinois told the Senate he thought the War Departmcnt "ought to treat these folks alike. Instead of building up morale by the plan, this will tear it down."

Sen. Hatch (D.) of New Mexico said it seemed those who could least afford to pay were being required to pay. He suggested putting all enlisted men on the free list.

In the House, Rep. Pace (D.) of Georgia, deplored the arrangement, contending privates and corporals are less able to pay the expenses than the high-paid non coms.

In allowing the families to go abroad, the Army put the clincher on what it has been saying about long-time occupation job.

Sift F. D. Files, Senator Urges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (INS)—Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan called upon the executive branch today to search the files of the late President Roosevelt for any secret agreements such as that giving the Kurile islands to Russia and "make them public."

Sens. Robertson (R.) of Wyoming, and Wheeler (D.) of Montana were critical of the newly-revealed promise President Roosevelt made Stalin at Yalta. Wheeler said:

"We were told there were no other commitments at Yalta other than were made public. Now we find there were secret agreements. I think it is a serious mistake—the Kuriles should have been kept as American."

Senate Gets British Loan Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Legislation authorizing a $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain was formally introduced in the Senate today.

In the House, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, (R.) of New Jersey read a letter he said he had written President Truman asking if the request for the loan to Britain would be followed by requests for loans to Russia, France, China and other nations of the world.

Thomas said in the letter: "I hope that in recommending the loan to the United Kingdom you are taking into consideration possible demands from other nations, and likewise the embarrassment which could accrue to us were we to grant a loan to the United Kingdom and not one to Russia and the other powers."

U. S. Troops in Germany Want Wives Kept Home

By HOWARD BERRY

LONDON, Jan. 31 (INS)—American occupation troops on duty in Germany on furlough in England agreed today there was little to be said in favor of the Army policy of bringing their families to Europe this spring.

Sgt. Elmer Immel, of Amarilla, Texas., said:

"For too many of the boys its impossible, and it will certainly cause hard feelings. I'd rather go home."

American troops on furlough in Britain were nearly unanimous in disapproving the plan. The consensus was:

"It is okay for the guys that want it; but cold, starving rotting Europe is no place for my family."

The soldiers, while admitting the loneliness, dullness and deadly monotony of occupation duty, felt the price was too high to have their families with them, attempting to "exist" under impossible European conditions.

Vaccination Law Repeal Opposed

Vaccination has enabled Massachusetts to be entirely free of smallpox for 14 years, Dr. Vlado A. Getting, Commissioner of Public Health, told a legislative committee on public health in registering his opposition to a bill proposing repeal of the state compulsory vaccination law.

The bill was filed by Mrs. Arthur W. Lawson, chairman, and Mrs. Jessica C. Henderson, secretary, of the Committee for Medical Freedom.

Others recorded in opposition were M. J. Downey, assistant superintendent of Boston schools; the Massachusetts Medical Society, Dr. Merrill Champion, director of the Division of Communicable Diseases, and Dr. James O. Wails, Worcester City Commissioner of Public Health.

B-29 Ex-Gunner Wins Divorce

His wife could not be "bothered with combat fatigue," Ernest DiLoreti of East Seventh st., South Boston, a former B-29 tail gunner, testified in Suffolk Probate Court today in obtaining an uncontested divorce from Anna DiLoreti, now of Boise, Ida.

DiLoreti told Judge Frederick J. Dillon he was discharged from the Air Forces because of combat fatigue but his wife refused to join him.

Mrs. Helen K. Wales of Jamaica Plain complained that her husband, Everett, alternately read the Bible aloud and beat her. She said liquor gave him a religious mania sometimes varied with an urge to "kick and beat me." She was granted an uncontested divorce.

Curley Cleanup Hits Burlesque And Vaudeville

Boston burlesqqe houses and theaters where vaudeville is presented are going to "clean up or close up," Mayor Curley announced today.

The mayor said he had summoned theater owners, managers and producers to a conference at noon tomorrow at which he will give them the ultimatum.

"We're going to have decent entertainment around here for a change," he said. "They cleaned them up in New York and we can do it here."

The mayor declared many children could be seen waiting in lines to go into burlesque houses and theaters where stage shows contained many situations which should onlly be witnessed by adults.

"I've had many complaints," he said. "Clergymen and others have protested about some of the entertainment being offered children. They're going to get this filth of the stages or we'll close them up."

The mayor also defended his proposal to increase assessed valuations on apartments, stores and theaters, declaring that $500,000,000 has been lopped off assessed valuations in the past 10 years.

"All this chopping was done for the most part on high-valued buildings, not on the 'overburdened home owner,'" he asserted.

Apartment house owners, meeting last night, had declared such action would bring a determined move for Plan E municipal government here.

The mayor also announced 251 persons appointed to city jobs since election day would be dropped from the payrolls tonight and 48 others would lose salary increases granted after Nov. 6.

Legion in Fight On Vivisection

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 31—The American Legion today was squarely behind the fight to outlaw dog vivisection.

Unqualified support of the Dicostanzo-Crews bill which would ban the cutting up of live dogs for experimental purposes was given in a resolution unanimously adopted at the annual midwinter conference of state committees of the Legion.

Adding assistance to the measure was National Com. John B. Stelle, who voiced enthusiastic approval of the proposed humanitarian legislation.

"This is a good bill," he said. "The Legion stands for humane legislation always. Particularly we are opposed to experiments on living dogs in view of the heroic role dogs played in the war."

Dancer Seeks $10,000 Damages

INP by Bill Jones

Girl Witness In Dancers' Suit Tells of Crash

A Stoughton girl who was sitting on her front porch with a sailor at the time, today testified in Suffolk Superior Court she had witnessed the accident for which two dancers are seeking $55,000 damages, claiming injuries received put an end to their careers.

Mrs. Ruth Ruff, 30, Blossom st., Chelsea, seeks $5000 in two claims. The other plaintiff is Miss Marian A. Kanall, 25, Trenton st., East Boston, who is asking $50,000 in three claims.

The defendents are the Rev. Williston M. Holbert, minister of the Portuguese Baptist Church, Taunton, Fay Scofield, driver of the car in which the dancers were riding, and Alice Scofield, registered owner of the car.

The Stoughton girl, Lorraine Nelson, Washington st., testified she saw three cars southbound on Route 138 the night of the accident and one northbound.

She told the court the northbound car, traveling about 35 miles an hour, struck the third southbound car, bounced off and hit a tree on the side of the road, tipping over. Scofield was driving the northbound car, with Mrs. Ruff and Miss Kanall as passengers. The Rev. Mr. Holbert was driver of the other car.

Miss Nelson said the northbound car appeared to be near the center of the road before the crash.

The case is continuing.

Hayden Seeks Reno Divorce

Sterling Hayden, the former movie star and husband of glamorous Madeleine Carroll, arrived in Reno today to establish divorce residence. News reports from the Nevada divorce capital quoted him as saying he was establishing residence there to preclude the necessity of his wife coming to Reno. Miss Carroll was last reported in Paris.

Hayden, the tall blond Gloucester fisherman who skyrocketed to movie fame in two pictures, declined to discuss the divorce case. The 29-year-old Hayden and the English-born screen actress, 11 years his senior, were married in Peterborough, N. H., in March, 1942.

Only a few months before their wedding—which they kept secret for almost a year—Hayden had walked out on Hollywood, asserting the place was too phony and he wanted to live his own life.

He served during the war as a Marine Corps lieutenant after enlisting as a private.

Miss Carroll also quit the movies to devote all her time and efforts to war work. After several months' voluntary work with the United Seamen's Service in New York, she returned to England where her younger sister, Marguerite, was killed during a bombing raid on London.

Later, she went to France where her interest in the plight of war orphans won her the loving nickname of Fairy Godmother of Unwanted Children.

The romance of Sterling and Madeleine, which they successfully shrouded in secrecy for so long, won them fame as movieland's most mysterious couple. They met when he was assigned to play opposite her in the pictures "Bahama Passage" and "Virginia."

Madeleine, star of the British theater before she came to America, was divorced in 1939 from Philip Astey, wealthy British army captain.

Hayden, never an actor before he went to Hollywood, was the veteran of a varied career at sea despite his youth.

He had worked as a coal passer, had twice sailed around the world and was navigator of Capt. Ben Pine's schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud in the last international fishermen's races against Canadian champion Bluenose.

British Bride In Death Race To Arlington

ABOARD BRIDE SHIP ARGENTINA, Jan. 31 (AP)—For one British bride aboard this United States-bound ship the voyage is a race.

Mrs. Francis Connolly, who is going to Arlington, Mass., has been informed her husband's mother is critically ill and has been asking to see her daughter-in-law and grandchild.

Before her marriage the blonde girl was Margaret Lupino, better known as Toni, a cousin of the screen actress, Ida Lupino, and a member of a British theatrical family.

She toured the United States as a child and her 2-year-old son, Kenneth, already has made his stage debut, having been carried before the footlights of the Palladium Theater in London by his grandfather, Stanley Lupino.

Mrs. Connolly says she has abandoned the idea of continuing her acting career although she was beginning to be well-established before her marriage. Her husband, a former marine, was an aide to Adm. Stark during the war.

The news his mother was ill was received in England some weeks ago and Mrs. Connolly said she "tried every way possible to arrange passage" before the Argentina sailed but without success.

"We corresponded regularly during the war and I love her as though she were my own mother," Mrs. Connolly said. "It's been a terrible worry. I particularly want her to see Kenneth."

The little boy is their second child. The first died soon after birth.

"My husband's mother was so wonderful during that time," she commented. "I don't know what I would have done without her letters. I do hope we get there in time."

Bride's Hubby, Mother Eagerly Wait Arrival

"The arrival of my wife and son may be the best medicine for my mother," declared S-Sgt Francis Connolly of Massachusetts ave., Arlington, today.

He said his mother, Mrs. Rose Connolly, with three sons and a daughter in the armed forces, came home from the hospital recently "but she's still quite sick."

"She's looking forward to Margaret's arrival with our son, Kenneth, and I know it will be a big help to her to see them," he said.

Connolly said the Red Cross notified him today the Argentina, carrying his wife and son to America, will dock Sunday instead of Monday as originally announced.

Connolly's brother, PFC Richard J., of the Marine Corps, is hurrying home from China to be at his mother's bedside and another brother, Lt. Thomas P. Connolly, Jr., with the Marines in Japan, is completing arrangements for a furlough.

His sister, Mrs. Joseph Hartman, recently discharged from the Army Nurse Corps as a captain, joined the family last week.

Connolly was personal orderly to Adm. Harold R. Stark, European naval commander in London. He was given a 30-day emergency furlough when his mother was stricken.

Foils One Attack, Victim of 2d

Within two hours after she successfully fought off the advances of a man in Saugus, Mrs. Virginia Broderick, 41, of Blossom st., West Lynn, was overpowered and criminally attacked by another man in East Lynn, she told police today.

She said the first man attempted to assault her in a wooded section of Saugus after he offered her an auto ride from a Saugus cafe. Frustrated, the man drove her to Sanderson ave., East Lynn and told her to get out.

She told police she was unfamiliar with the section and a "tall, thin man about 36 years old" offered to escort her home. As they walked toward the Boston & Maine railroad tracks, he threw her to the ground and attacked her, she said.

Hospital Urged For Alcoholics

Drunkenness cost Massachusetts $61,000,000 in 1943, Theodore A. Lothrop, secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, told the legislative committee on public health today, while favoring a bill to establish a hospital for chronic alcoholics and another for appointment of a commission to continuously study the problem.

Lothrop told the committee that the society investigated 6000 families, involving 15,800 children last year, and that drunkenness was the cause of neglect and abuse of children in one out of four cases.

State Commissioner of Mental Health Clifton T. Perkins favored both bills. He said drunkenness is an overwhelming problem.

Atty. Samuel Silverman, representing Massachusetts Package Store Ass'n, also favored both bills but said a member of the liquor industry and the chairman of the ABC should be on the proposed commissions.

Airport Bus Bill to Tobin

The House and Senate today enacted the controversial bill granting the Boston El permission to operate de luxe bus ervice between downtown hotels and Logan Airport. The measure then went to Governor Tobin's office for his signature or veto.

The bill enables the El to charge a 25-cent fare in competition with the Sutcliffe Storage & Warehouse Co., which services the airport with three limousines at 75 cents.

The public utilities commission rejected a petition by the El for a permit despite endorsement from industrial, business and airline leaders.

Watch Union Chief Urges Labor Ethics

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The leader of an independent union told Senators today Congress should establish a "code of ethics" for all labor unions, including a ban on membership for "Communists."

Walter N. Cenerazzo of Boston, president of the American Watchmakers Union, offered this suggestion to the Senate labor committee, along with an assertion "mob psychology and mob hysteria" are causing current industrial strife.

The committee is studying legislation to provide fact-finding in labor disputes.

Cenerazzo, who said his union had about 8000 members, criticized Walter Reuther, CIO auto workers official, and contended John L. Lewis quit CIO because he found his lieutenants "loyal not to the cause of organied labor, but the Communist philosophy."

He said his proposal for a union "code of ethics" would enable "labor to clean its own house" and eliminate "mob psychology."

Cenerazzo termed the CIO-General Motors strike an "example of bad management and bad labor" and described Reuther, CIO leader in the GM strike in these words:

"A young man who was brought up in the Socialist philosophy and who travelled throughout Europe studying the main "isms' there and who worked for a time in the Gorky plant in Communist Russia, and who returned to the United States and became active in union organization work and who suppressed his ideas while he climbed the ladder to leadership."

Vet Preference Only on Original Appointments

Disabled veterans are entitled to preference only on original appointments to Civil Service positions, the full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court ruled today in a decision written by Justice Henry T. Lummus.

The court held disabled veterans' preference does not extend to promotions within the civil service once a man has been granted his appointment.

The decision was handed down in the case of Eugene R. MacCarthy of Winthrop versus the director of state civil service. MacCarthy, a veteran of World War I, claimed he was entitled to the position of superintendent of sewers in the Metropolitan District Commission.

MacCarthy, an MDC civil service employe since 1930, was given provisional appointment as superintendent of sewers in 1939. In 1943 he was one of five employes to pass a competitive examination for the post, and the only disabled veteran in the group.

When he failed to receive the post he appealed to the Superior Court. Judge Williams upheld the civil service commission ruling that no preference was given veterans on promotions. MacCarthy then appealed to the Supreme Court which today also upheld the commission.

Kitty Cornered!

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—From its lofty perch in a tree top, astray cat yowled two days, prompting residents of North Hoyne ave. to urge the anti-cruelty society to rescue the feline.

Herbert Carnes rigged ladders and ropes to rescue the cat. But the animal kept backing away, lost its footing, then hung by two paws for a minute and finally plunged about 65 feet to an alley.

It hit a fence corner, leaving part of its fur there, bounced off a car fender before making a four-point landing. Then it kept right on running.

Why Are U. S. Goods So Short? This Tells

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (INS)—One of the answers to continued shortages in the United States of vitally needed foodstuffs and manufacturers may be seen today in Commerce Department figures disclosing tremendous export totals.

Billions of dollars worth of food products, steel and iron products, automobiles, trucks and busses, construction machinery, office appliances, and other commodities have been shipped overseas. The shipments are continuing although not as heavily as heretofore.

The bureau of census reported exports during the first 11 months of 1945 totaled $8,873,338,223. That figure includes lend-lease and UNRRA shipments.

To Europe alone during that period went e xports worth $5,-103,868,618. This compares with a total of $1,289,311,000 in the calendar year 1939.

More revealing than the figures themselves is the breakdown which shows the enormous amount of commodities—still short in the United States—shipped abroad.

Exports of manufactured foodstuffs totaled $1,105,829,876. This included 866,006,432 pounds of meat products worth $244,021,022.

Sugar and related products were exported in the amount of $31,625,704. Exports of diary products, fresh milk excepted, amounted to $198,727,278.

With the nation's automobiles rapidly wearing out, and with replacement parts extremely difficult to obtain, $55,171,326 worth of assembly parts and $137,503,-069 worth of replacement parts were exported.

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., Jan. 31—The photograph which a former civilian nurse in Manila claims shows him in a bridal pose has absolutely nothing to do with a wedding, Maj. Arthur Wermuth, Bataan's famous "one man Army," asserted today.

Wermuth identified himself in the picture, but denied emphatically he ever was married to the auburn-haired Filipino nurse, Olivia Josephine Oswald, who is suing hi mfor annulment.

"I have only one wife and she's with me now," he said. "I never married anyone anywhere else."

The Bataan hero said he and Mrs. Wermuth were married June 1, 1935. She is the former Jean Wilkins of Chicago.

In Manila, meanwhile, the Filipino nurse declared she still loved Wermuth and would willingly take him back if he would give up his present wife.

Commenting on the picture which the nurse released in Manila, the Army major told reporters he recognized the former nurse in the photograph.

Later, in a formal statement, he said he "could not recall" the exact time or place the picture was taken but it "was taken after a party in Manila."

"Legal records will show there was no marriage," the statement added.

Nazi War Trial Told Yank PWS Riddled

By DANIEL DE LUCE

NUERNBERG, Jan. 31 (AP)—A German officer used a group of unarmed American prisoners of war for target practice as a prelude to the cold-blooded execution of 129 captured soldiers during the Battle of the Bulge last winter, the International Military Tribunal was told today.

The French prosecution introduced a statement by Belgian civilians describing the massacre, which occurred at a crossroads near Saint Vith, Dec. 12, 1944. 12, 1944.

The Americans, defending the crossroads against a Nazi offensive, took to the ditches as German tanks approached and the tanks fired into the ditches until the Americans surrendered.

They were led to a field a short distance away, where the Germans searched each man, taking watches, rings and other personal effects, the statement continued.

Then a German armored vehicle trained its guns on prisoners. A Nazi officer mounted on the vehicle drew his pistol, aimed at the group and fired. One of the prisoners fell.

He fired again. Another American fell. Then the armored vehisle guns opened up, spraying lead for two or three minutes.

Later, German soldiers walked among the Americans, finishing off the wounded.

"Two soldiers struck them with gun butts or fired from a short distance into their temples or between the eyes," the document asserted.

Ask State Probe Home Shortage

Recommendation for an immediate investigation of the housing shortage was promised today by the Legislature's committee on mercantile affairs.

The announcement came after a hearing on bills asking the State build apartment houses or buy land on which thousands of prefabricated homes could be erected.

Rep. Edward A. Hutchinson, Jr., of Roxbury, asked the State be authorized to loan money to cities and towns to build homes for veterans.

Another measure, which would authorize the State to issue bonds up to $25,000,000 for home construction, was supported by Rep. Robert F. Murphy of Malden.

TOSSES OUT PILLS AT '71

Famous Cereal Brings Constipation Relief

Do you suffer from constipation? Then be sure to read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"Ever since I was a young man I have taken many kinds of medicine and pills with no lasting relief. Three weeks of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN has put me on regular schedule, with more pep and better feeling in general. Almost 71 years of age and going strong." Thos. A. Milleux, 440 Church Lane, Yeadon, Pa.

You may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet—if you eat a dish of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. Try this for 10 days. If you are not completely satisfied, send empty carton to Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich. You'll get double your money back!

ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a good, wholesome food that provides gentle-acting bulk, helpful to normal, easy laxation. Nutritious, too, because it is made from the vital outer layer of finest wheat!

Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

EXAMINE JAP COMPASS—Members of the crew of the H.M.S. Fishguard (l. to r.): CS Francis Freeborn and CBM George Moore, examine a Jap compass they picked up on their tour around the world. The Fishguard, former U. S. C. G. cutter, Tahoe, is in South Boston naval drydock. INP by Carroll Myett

USS Tahoe, Loaned To Britain, Returns

The "luckiest ship in the British Navy" is here in Boston today making preparations to take up American citizenship again after spending more than four years battling U-boats in at least six of the seven seas.

The vessel is the H.M.S. Fishguard, formerly and soon-to-be the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Tahoe, veteran of 15 years of pre-war rescue work in the North Atlantic.

On her last voyage under the white ensign of the Royal Navy, however, the Fishguard, which went through invasions and torpedo attacks unscathed, underwent a terrific beating from wind and waves for 16 days.

Lt. Com. C. G. Scott, RNVA, last of the Fishguard's numerous skippers, said the ship rolled more than 50 degrees and all but shipped water through her stack.

Crew's quarters were constantly under a foot of water, radio communication was halted when the gales carried away all aerials. The vessel's motorboat was lost and two members of the crew were injureed.

When the Fishguard put into St. Johns, N. F., with a dangerously low fuel supply, the entire power system failed.

Veteran crew members, some of them with more than 20 years of sea service, said they never experienced a worse storm.

Chief Stoker Francis H. Freeborn and C. B. M. George B. Moore served with the Fishguard from the time she was transferred to the British in the spring of 1941 through the Battle of the Atlantic, the North African and Italian invasions and throughout her stay in the Far East.

The Fishguard never lost a ship in her charge, and she had some pretty hot runs escorting supply ships for Montgomery's 8th Army, and never lost a crew member in action or by accident, according to Moore and Freeborn.

On Monday the Fishguard will be formally decommissioned and the Coast Guard will take over.

Action on Draft, Training Wait New Plan for Defense

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The House military committee today spiked Administration hopes of early action on a continued draft law and universal military training.

It decided to concentrate instead on a new National Defense Act. And Chairman May (D.) of Kentucky pointed out that all other Army proposals necessarily will hinge on the new act's contents.

The committee already has held long hearings on universal training, but the new move evidently wiped out plans to resume them now. No hearing date has been set on the question of extending the draft, due to expire May 15.

A special nine-man subcommittee was assigned to work out recommendations for the postwar defense act which will blueprint the overall peacetime structure of the Army.

Once that is decided, it may undertake to decide how the necessary personnel should be obtained—by voluntary enlistment, universal training, or a continued draft.

Prisoner Flees Brighton Officer

Breaking away from a court officer, Bernard E. Blankenberg, 19, Deering rd., Mattapan, World War II veteran, escaped from custody today following arraignment in Brighton court on a charge of failing to support his wife and child.

The escape took place in front of Brighton courthouse as Officer James J. Rourke was escorting Blankenberg to an auto. His case had been continued by Judge Connelly and he was being taken to Charles st. jail in default of bail.

Malden Man Held For Stabbing Mother

William Carter, 28, of Irving st., Malden, was held in $5000 for the grand jury by Judge Elbridge G. Davis after he pleaded guilty in Malden court to a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on his mother, Mrs. Frances Carter, 50.

Police said Mrs. Carter, under treatment at Malden Hospital, suffered a four-inch cut in her side, allegedly inflicted by her son during a family argument.

Bay State Prepared To Fight Land Grab

Leaders of Massachusetts civic and commercial life were reported rallying today behind Atty. Gen. Clarence A. Barnes for a protest in Washington before the Senate judiciary committee Tuesday against Interior Sec. Ickes' plan to claim federal ownership of all submerged and reclaimed land.

At stake in the Bay State is the right to an $8,000,000 per year shellfish industry and the legal title to much of downtown Boston and the Back Bay. Ickes' proposal would place all "reclaimed land" on which much of the city was built, under federal control and ownership.

Atty. Gen. Barnes has named Asst. Atty. Gen. George P. Drury to represent his office at the hearing and present the state's protest, which has been in preparation for weeks.

Boston property located on made land is worth more than a half-billion dollars, and any federal claims to the land would result in lengthy legal battles and months of uncertainty, it was pointed out.

Joining with representatives of other states, Massachusetts' spokesmen will urge the Senate committee to expedite action on pending legislation which would decide the ownership issue in favor of the states, thus forestalling any court decision.

The House already has approved the bill with only 11 dissenting votes, but a strong movement is reported under way to "stall" the matter in the Senate, pending a Supreme Court ruling.

The land grab scheme was revealed when Ickes brought action against the State of California to determine whether the State or the federal government owns oil and other resources within the State's three-mile tidewater mark.

Although not directly involved in the Ickes-California test tilt, Massachusetts and 45 other states are backing California in the battle against the land grab which would establish government ownership rights to lands valued at least one hundred billions of dollars in 26 coastal and Great Lakes states.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Drury pointed out that under provisions of the 1783 treaty with England, Massachusetts has held undisputed claim to all submerged land within its borders and waterfront areas within the three-mile limit.

"This title is an attribute of sovereignty which never has been handed over by the State to the federal government," Drury declared, "and states admitted to the Union later have been admitted on the same terms as the original 13. An attack on one is an attack on all."

4-Mile Chase In Swampscott

Three men eluded police today in a thrilling four-mile auto chase after they were surprised while attempting to rob the summer home of Mrs. Maurice Curran, Atlantic ave., Swampscott.

Patrolmen Frank Roach and Clark Wood of Swampscott saw the three leave the house, closed for the winter, and pursued them. The robbers sped toward Lynn over the ice-coated streets and the officers lost them in Lewis st., Lynn.

In the rear of the Curran house, rugs, jewelry, liquors and household furnishings were heaped in the snow ready to be carted away.

Clothing Drive To Surpass Quota

With more than 2,000,000 pounds of garments and shoes already en route to war victims in Europe and Asia, the 1946 Victory Clothing Collection campaign comes to an official end at midnight tonight.

With many outlying depots yet to report, it was predicted by officials that the Greater Boston quota of 3,000,000 garments, exclusive of shoes, will be surpassed.

Attlee Hopes to Halt World Atomic Race

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today that Britain "hopes the use of atomic energy will be developed in co-operation rather than in competition with other nations."

A-Bomb Survivors Show Blood Defects, Lose Hair

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The atomic bomb which fell on Nagasaki literally jarred loose the teeth of survivors and left some with radioactive gold fillings. It also caused many to lose their hair, but no one wound up completely bald. This was reported today by Com. Joseph Timmes of the Navy Medical Corps, who examined some of the living victims a month afterward. He also said the "radiation sickness" produced a form of anemia, because rays from the bomb interfered with the functions of the bone marrow, one of the principal manufacturing sites of red blood cells.

Some victims, he said in a report in the Naval Medical Bulletin, also showed a deficiency of white blood cells—nature's protective mechanism against disease invasion.

MANILA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, charged with condoning war atrocities, removed the commander of the infamous Camp O'Donnell in an effort to improve conditions for its 70,000 inmates, a defense witness testified today.

Lt. Col. Moriya Wada testified Homma ordered a change in commandants.

State Living Costs Increase

The cost of all goods and services in Massachusetts in January showed an upward trend of a quarter of 1 per cent over December, the division on teh necessaries of life of the State Department of Labor and Industry disclosed today.

The combined index for food, clothing, shelter, fuel, light and sundries stood at 126.9 for the month, in contrast to an index of 98.9 in January, 1941. The index is based upon a 1935-39 average of 100.

Continued absence of lower-priced yearing apparel in many of the pricing items and higher prices on some lines caused the clothing index to rise1.03 per cent.

First Tufts Woman Graduate Dies

Mrs. Henrietta Noble Brown Durkee, 74, first woman graduate of Tufts College, died today in the home on Professors Row, Somerville, in which she was born.

Funeral services will be held Saturday in Goddard Chapel, on the Tufts campus, where she was married 51 years ago to the late Prof. Frank W. Durkee, head of the Tufts chemistry department.

German Slaves Speeded Home

Displaced persons in Germany probably would all be returned to their own countries during the spring, George L. Warren, State Department adviser on refugees and displaced persons, declared today in an address at Radcliffe College's school of international relations.

Estimating that 8,500,000 slave laborers had been used by the Nazis in Germany, Warren said the Poles constituted the largest national group still waiting repatriation.

He explained their return had been delayed by the huge eastward movement of Russians from Germany and lack of adequate living facilities in Poland.

Practically all persons displaced from western Europe have been returned to their home countries, as well as Soviet and Italian citizens, he said. Return of Germans from eastern Europe is gaining momentum, he said, predicting that 8,000,000 would be home by the end of June.

Bride, 21, Who Saved Mate From Jail Admits Polygamy

A diminutive, 21-yearlold bride, whose tearful entreaties two months ago moved a judge to give her husband a "break" on larceny charges, today was in municipal court badly in need of help herself.

Marie Marotta Gregory, Casenove st., South End, pleaded guilty to a polygamy charge and said her right name was Marie Lojko because she married Alfred Gregory, 22, without being divorced from her first husband.

Judge Jennie L. Barron continued the case until tomorrow to find out more about the tangled affairs of Marie and ordered her held in $500 bonds.

Gregory sat crestfallen in the spectators' section while his bride was arraigned. He appealed to court attaches for information on how to obtain a lawyer and bonds to free his young wife.

He said he found out about his wife's predicament after they were married on Nov. 29, 1945, and went with her to the police when she decided to admit the extra marriage.

Gregory said Marie told him she was married May 12, 1942, to Edward S. Lojko, now with the Army in Japan. He said she "thought he had divorced her."

The husband was given three years' probation and a 14-month suspended jail term Dec. 3, 1945, when Marie tearfully pleaded with Judge Riley in municipal court.

Crashed Plane Had Oil Leak

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (INS)—Testimony that the Eastern Airlines transport plane which crashed in flames near Cheshire, Ct., killing all 17 aboard, Jan. 18, had a ruptured oil line when it reached New York was heard today by a Civil Aeronautics Board.

A master mechanic, Richard Kolwopu, testified he had checked the incoming pilot's report of a "slight oil leak" in the left engine and found the oil hose split open for about 20 inches. He said he replaced the hose., but that no inspection of the new oil line had been made before the takeoff for Boston.

Housewife Shirley Bakes Hubby a Cake

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31 (AP)—Anticipation and anxiety strove for top billing on Housewife Shirley Temple's face today—she had just baked her first cake and was hoping Husband John G. Agar would enjoy it when it's served up at his 25th birthday dinner tonight.

It was a devil's food job with chocolate icing, and, as Shirley expressed it, "it'll have writing on top."

Topcoats for Milady

Springy

Curvy

A coat that emphasizes the feminine curves is this number by Nettie Rosenstein. In peacock blue wool, it has cuffed elbow sleeves, a new fashion note. Miss Mugglebee says this creation will be a sure hit with the spring wardrobe shoppers.

JURIES NEED WOMEN

THIRTY-ONE States of the Union have amended their laws to permit women to serve on juries.

Massachusetts shall be the thirty-second State to make this necessary and thoroughly American succession.

An unfortunate accident deprived Massachusetts of the honor of being the first State to have women jurors.

When the legislators amended the election statutes they neglected to change the jury service laws.

Consequently, women of the Bay State were only PARTIALLY EMANCIPATED.

They are the equals of their husbands, brothers and fathers in all elections—municipal, county, State and Federal.

But they are NOT the equals of the men in any tribunal.

IN FACT, SO FAR AS JURIES ARE CONCERNED, WOMEN IN MASSACHUSETTS RATE ON A PAR WITH CHILDREN, MORONS, ALIENS AND CONVICTS.

THIS UNFAIR and unjust situation has been tolerated for nearly three decades, partly because the people did not fully understand it and partly because the political type of politician persisted in obscuring the issue with nonsensical arguments.

For instance, every time a bill granting jury service to women has been considered on Beacon Hill some Senator or Representative always made it a habit and business to voice such silly opinions as:

"We cannot expose our fair womanhood to the stark realities of life. We must not allow them in our courts where they will hear things they would never hear in their kitchens."

Politicians conveniently forget that women have been facing the "stark realities of life" since the beginning of the world without harm to themselves and with great benefit to civilization.

Politicians also forget that we have WOMEN judges, WOMEN clerks, WOMEN lawyers and WOMEN spectators in our courts.

Women thus see and hear everything that transpires.

But, according to the politicians, it would be downright sinful for women to see and hear the same things on a jury.

OF COURSE, the time has come to eliminate such prudish hypocrisy.

Women have demonstrated their capabilities in every department of government.

They are operating many of our most important and prosperous industries.

They have distinguished themselves in all professions and particularly in medicine, where they are responsible for some of the greatest discoveries of recent years.

They went into every branch of the armed forces, eagerly and willingly sharing the risks and hardships with men in the battles of Europe and Asia.

Throughout the emergency period they worked shoulder to shoulder with their husbands and brothers on the production line, turning out the materials and weapons which achieved victory.

They have inspired at least 75 per cent of the nation's humanitarian legislation.

They have been most effective in the campaign against juvenile delinquency—an evil too frequently ignored by men.

A woman is credited with giving science a major clue to the atomic bomb.

SURELY, in the light of these facts, women will improve our jury system and enlighten and elevate our entire judicial structure.

They will make trials more honest and honorable, and infinitely more responsive and responsible to the people—to women as well as to men.

We would not consider a household operated by men exclusively for men to be a suitable or satisfactory home.

WHY, THEN, SHOULD WE CONTINUE, YEAR AFTER YEAR, TO BE CONTENT WITH EQUALLY LOPSIDED JURIES?

I am quite sure he thinks that I am God,
Since he is God on whom each one depends
For life, and all things that His bounty sends.
My dear old dog, most constant of all friends,
He looks love at me, deep as words e'er spake;
And from me never crumb or sup will take
But wags thanks with his most vocal tail.
—WILLIAM CROSWELL DOANE.

ABOVE IS an excerpt from one of the extremely touching poems Bishop Doane wrote about his dog Cluny. The reference to Cluny's "most vocal tail" particularly appeals to me. When Cluny became aged and feeble he always managed to muster sufficient strength to climb the stairs to see his master, who for a long period was confined to bed by illness. In describing this, Bishop Doane wrote four lines which I believe among the most touching ever written about a dog. They follow:

He had lived out his life, but not his love;
Daily up steep and weary stairs he came,
His big heart bursting with the straun, to prove
His loneliness without me.

PLEASE NOTE: Billy Conn, pride of Pittsburgh, weighed 170 pounds the first time he fought Joe Louis. Now he weighs 193 and is a real heavyweight. Billy's followers seem to think this additional weight improves his chance. I don't agree. Conn weighing 193 may not be so fast as at 170. And if Billy isn't as fast or faster than he was last time he won't last more than five rounds with Joe. The kind of fellow who could give Louis a really tough evening would be a fast light heavyweight with a sock. Somebody like Bob Fitzsimmons.

PASSING BY: Enos Slaughter. Hard-hitting major leaguer. Out of uniform and ready to return to baseball. Meant to ask Enos if he was related to Betty "Queen of Sheba" Blythe, erstwhile film star. Her real name is Elizabeth Blythe Slaughter. Her folks were originally from Kentucky. Savannah Churchill. Songstress. Giving Miss Churchill the first name she has was a stroke of genius. Makes her full name stand out in the billing and sticks in the memory. What was that song Stella Mayhew used to sing which included the line: "Honey, don't you love your baby no more." Well, anyway, Savannah Churchill should include this in her repertoire.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Isn't Jim Thorpe, the great all around athlete of bygone days, half Indian and half Irish?

A—Jim says he is five-eighths Indian, two-eighths Irish and one-eighth French . . . Q—How do you pronounce Sonja Henie? A—Son-ya Haynee . . . Q—As to whom Ypsilanti, Mich., is named after, the corporal, who is from Detroit, says a Greek philosopher is honored. How about it? A—The charming city is named after Dmitri Ypsilanti, a Greek patriot. Of course, he may have also been a philosopher, but it was his activities as a patriot that inspired the aforementioned honor.

SOMETHING NEW: "Rayon that is stronger than nylon." That is what the British textile physics authority, Prof. W. T. Astbury says of a product called 'fortisan," recently originated in England. Despite his high praise of the new product, the professor was conservative in expressing a view as to what it might do for the hosiery problems of females. Said he: "Whether it will mean real ladderless stockings I cannot forecast."

LIE DETECTORS: The "lie detector" is figuring prominently in many current criminal cases. Much dependency seems to be placed on the efficiency of this machine. If it is all claimed for it, why wouldn't it be a good idea to manufacture a popular priced lie detector for home use? This might be of assistance in keeping wayward husbands in line. How about you, sir? Would you be always willing when arriving home at 3 a. m. to subject yourself to the lie detector, while the little lady asked you in a cold, hard voice, "Where have you been, and with whom?"

COLDS: In one week 29,500,000 Americans had colds and 4,500,000 had the grippe or flu. I haven't had a cold in two years. Once I went six years without a cold. Previous to that I was very susceptible to colds. In doing away with my colds believe a change in diet was largely responsible. Keeping out of crowded places as much as possible also helped. Sleeping with the windows closed on cold nights was another factor.

"You just missed the 4:55—but don't worry, the 3:10 hasn't pulled in yet!"

These Days

John L. Lewis

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Synd., Inc.

THE FIRST SIGN of returning sanity in this vale of confusion is the readmission of the United Mine Workers to the American Federation of Labor and the elevation of John L. Lewis to a member of the A. F. of L. Council.

John L. Lewis

Labor has been divided into four parts: 1—The vast number of working Americans who belong to no labor unions; 2—The American Federation of Labor; 3—The C. I. O.; 4—The independent and unaffiliated unions.

Of the latter, the United Mine Workers has been the most important, its District 50 having served as a "wild deuce," taking on trades, crafts and industries without regard to mining.

It was, for instance, to prevent District 50 from taking over transportation in New York that Mike Quill forced Mayor O'Dwyer of New York into submission to his, Quill's, political policies concerning transportation.

The C. I. O. is in many respects a more efficient organization than the A. F. of L.

Its publicity, for instance, is so superior that it overshadows in the press its older and larger and more stable competitor for the control of labor in America.

Its leadership, whether Sidney Hillman, Phil Murray or a second-liner like Walter Reuther, is more dramatic than anyone in the A. F. of L.

Politically it has been more potent, having formed an alliance with the bosses of the Democratic Party and the Communist Party.

It is, in fact, the American member of the new Labor International, recently formed, which is, by its leadership and activities, an obvious successor to Russia's Third International.

THE C. I. O., by philosophy and tactics, is revolutionary. Although it can be proved by statistics that most of its unions are not and that the majority of its leadership is not Communistic, every step it has taken since its inception has followed the Communist labor program.

For this, John L. Lewis is to blame, for when he organized the C. I. O., he was in a hurry and the Communists offered him an efficient apparatus which he expected to use for his own purposes.

It was not long before he discovered that they were using and betraying him. They sought to enslave him to their will and, failing, smeared him with all the venom in their book. Lewis got out of that misery a wiser man.

No matter what one thinks of John L. Lewis, the labor leader, he is, in every respect, an American. If he became isolationist before we entered the war, it was undoubtedly his direct and ugly experience with international Communism that influenced him.

He turned on his partner, Franklin D. Roosevelt, because he knew the man as few Americans did by direct association and out of an understanding of his devious practices. Should he ever write his memoirs, his chapter on Roosevelt will be historically the most valuable.

JOHN L. LEWIS brings to the American Federation of Labor his mellowed knowledge of C. I. O. tactics, strength and weaknesses.

He brings a philosophy of Americanism which is unsullied by alien conceptions.

He believes in the capitalist system as a sounder method for achieving the greater good for the greatest number.

He believes in labor union responsibility and operates his own union on the basis of contractural inviolability.

He is not likely at any point to compromise with Hillman, Bridges, Curran, Quill and others who have become the barons of mass labor in this country.

For them, he is anathema; for him, they are enemies of his country. And curiously, of these four big figures, three were surely born abroad.

The presence of John L. Lewis in the A. F. of L. strengthens that organization tremendously. It has taken in a fighting force, one that will fight Communist unions to the death.

There will be no compromise, no absurd camouflages.

In time, whatever Communist unions remain in the A. F. of L. will find themselves in the wrong house.

It is an interesting commentary of the situation that this step in labor reorientation is taken at the moment that the C. I. O. is engaged in a costly, stupidly-managed, inappropriately-timed general strike for political purposes.

When this strike is over, no matter what the result, C. I. O. leadership will have weakened their workers and their unions economically.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31—My friend Gene Fowler is due in Hollywood from New York, where he spent a month finishing his book, "A Solo in Tom-Toms." He's sure to be greeted by an avalanche of movie offers, for word about Gene's new novel has already reached Hollywood, a town where successful books are smelled out before they ever reach the publisher.

Dorothy McGuire

In his new novel, which may be his geratest, Fowler reminisces about his early life in Denver and especially about his grandmother who reared him, and he says if Marie Dressler were alive she would be ideal to play his granny. The book will be published in April and is dedicated to the Pulitzer prize poet, Robert Hillyer.

ALTHOUGH BOTH are rumored to have heart interests elsewhere, Mrs. Bobbie Fidler and John Sutton are certainly getting around together. They say they're just friends (that's where I've come in on a lot of romances). But speaking of John, now that the Joan Fontaine movie, "Christabel Cain," has been postponed until September, the 20th has grabbed him back quick, for "Claudia and David" with Dorothy McGuire and Bob Young. He'll be the "other man" in the life of the unpredictable and cute Claudia —and, incidentally, this will be Sutton's first movie role after three years in the service.

YOU USUALLY think of "world premieres" in terms of spotlights, autograph fans and hubbub. But the first showing anywhere of "A Scandal in Paris" (with George Sanders and Signe Hasso) will be on the island of Guam—and there's a human interest story back of this. There's a 4-months-old baby in the movie who has never been seen by his 18-year-old father, a sailor named Gene Bottoms, who is stationed there. So, through the Navy Department, the young pappy will proudly play host to 18,000 fellow sailors and officers when the print of the movie arrives there for its world premiere. There's a cute introductory shot of the 17-year-old mother introducing the baby to its father.

JACK HELLMAN of Variety printed the letter from Carroll Craig of Pacific Palisades, winner of the $2500 victory bond offered for the best reasons "Why I Can't Stand Jack Benny" in the recent contest. This is the poem:

He fills the air
With boasts and brags
And obsolete
Obnoxious gags.
His cowardice
Alone, indeed.
Is matched by his
Obnoxious greed.
And all the things
That he portrays
Show up my own
Obnoxious ways

FLORENCE RICE, who spent the last two years in New York with her parents, the Grantland Rices, after her unhappy marriage, is returning to Hollywood to have another try at pictures. She'll reopen her beach house in Venice. Florence appeared in "Voice of the Turtle" and "Cry Havoc" on Broadway. She's a very pretty girl and before she gave up pictures was doing very well.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AT RANDOM: Sam Wood is a very sick man and an operation may be necessary; Angela Green and Jack Kennedy, son of the former ambassador, will not get married as announced some time ago. It's all off; the new romance in Yvonne De Carlo's life is Bob Brooks, who owns the Seven Seas Cafe; Ben Cohn, popular publicist in Warners praisery department, and Marion Shannon in the same department were married a few days ago; the Mike Todd divorce is still held in abeyance; not since the war has ended has any star had the reception given Ann Sothern and Bob Steeling in New York. They had one day with Fieldsy and Walter Lang, who are now headed back for Hollywood; talked with Charles MacLeod, projectionist for Mervyn Le Roy and RKO. He's just received a map used by Gen. Arnold and Adm. King for the combined warfare. It's 14 feet high. MacLeod was technician for the presentation room of combined operations during the war.

SIDNEY FIELD, British comedian, will visit Bob Hope and also discuss a career in Hollywood. He's one of England's top comedians; another British visitor is Mrs. Helen Parnell, who arrived to spend a month with Bebe Daniels. Her husband is the head of BBC in London; June Haver at a table for two with Bentley Ryan at Ciro's; Richard Greene, already in New York, gets here Monday; Alice Faye, Phil Harris and Little Alice are spending a month in Palm Springs. Phil will commute for the Jack Benny show; Elliott Nugent is back in town and his family gets here next week. They've opened their Bel-Air house. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

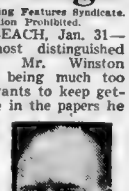
MIAMI BEACH, Jan. 31—Our most distinguished visitor, Mr. Winston Churchill, is being much too coy. If he wants to keep getting his name in the papers he had better snap out of it.



Winston Churchill

Mr. Churchill seems to be passing up a wonderful opportunity to grab off some publicity because the local newspaper folk, being very good-neighborly, would be only too glad to squeeze in a few lines about him. I can just imagine the result if the same opportunity was given Senator Bilbo.

Actually what is happening here is one of those weird phenomena of the newspaper business. More time and energy are being given to the arrangements for covering Mr. Churchill than to covering him.

For instance, the city of Miami Beach gave a big steak dinner to newspapermen, at which preliminary arrangements were discussed. Mr. Tom F. Smith, in charge of press relations, won a promise from photographers that they would not meet Churchill at the train in Miami, but would wait until he crossed the bay to Miami Beach.

In this way, explained Mr. Smith cagily, the pictures would be datelined Miami Beach, not Miami—the latter being a rival municipality on the mainland.

Mr. Smith then went to Palm Beach, where he boarded the Churchill train. To make sure the ex-prime minister would not break into bitter sobs of disappointment, Mr. Smith counselled him:

"Now, don't be upset if the press is not at the station to meet you. I have arranged for them to show up later."

Mr. Churchill assured Mr. Smith he would strive to conceal his disappointment.

The Miami bosses of some of the photogs refused to abide by the arrangement, however, and ordered their hirelings to the station. Word got out, with the result that Churchill found himself up to his cigar in agitated cameramen when he disembarked. Nevertheless, few pictures were taken. The photogs were too busy accusing each other of double-crossing.

A SECOND MEETING on arrangements was called. This took two hours. A schedule of interviews was arranged. But that evening Mr. Smith called a third conference.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, sadly, being a fellow who loves getting people and things publicity, "I seem to have misunderstood my job. My assignment, I have just been informed, is not to help you get stories about Mr. Churchill, but to keep you away from him!"

MATTERS REALLY proceeded to go awry from there. Doing the best he could, Mr. Smith issued communiques. One was to the effect Mr. Churchill had started work on a painting.

The reporters, few, if any, of whom are great art lovers, filed this handout in the gutter. But a few hours later they were stung to alertness by an announcement that an important bulletin was forthcoming. They waited tensely. Finally it came.

"Mr. Churchill," read the the news flash, "completed his painting at 4:30 p. m."

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN AN ATTEMPT to make amends, Mr. Smith produced a story that Mrs. Churchill had been presented with a basket of four dozen fresh eggs, the lady having mentioned that she was slightly tired of the powdered variety. The photographers pleaded for pictures of the egg presentation.

Mr. Smith came back jubilant, announcing he had the picture. He sure had. It was a picture of a basket of eggs!

MOVIE CAMERAMEN then began beefing that the still photographers were beating the pants off'n them in snapping Mr. Churchill at his painting. The still guys could sneak up on the visitor, but the movie boys, with their ponderous equipment, couldn't do any successful stalking. They asked if they could get a few shots of Mr. Churchill at his easel.

Col. Frank W. Clarke, the Churchillian host, said he would try to arrange it if his guest started another painting. The movie men said why couldn't he pretend to be working on the old one.

"But it's finished," objected Mr. Clarke. "You wouldn't want Mr. Churchill to be pretending would you?"

The photographers said this would not bother their consciences in the least, whereupon Mr. Clarke, obviously aghast at such low morals, exclaimed:

"I would like to remind you that Mr. Churchill is not an actor!"

AS THIS is being written, the press is holding another meeting on arrangements. If Churchill doesn't do something newsworthy soon the reporters here are going to vote against that $4,000,000,000.

Boston After Dark

THE BLACK MARKET in New York pegs the price of butter at 80 cents a pound . . . Milk in the Big Town is sold in waxed-cardboard square cartons . . . White shirts or colored shirts cannot be bought—except in sizes 18 and 18½ . . . The smart men's shops are avoiding shirt displays in their windows, but the department stores and the medium priced places are using window displays with sport shirts, and salesmen are recommending them as utilitarian on the ground that they can be worn in winter and summer.

MIKE TODD is very confident of "January Thaw" . . . The wonder-boy producer admits that the play may not be a "critic's pet," but he says it has more laughs than any show he ever produced, and that the public will love it . . . He may be right, but this department pressed its original wager of $5 that the dramatization of Bellamy Patridge's good novel will not run three months in New York . . . It is a sucker bet, in a way, for us.

MIKE CAN keep the comedy running a year, thus building up the value of the motion picture rights, and absorb such losses as may accrue with the taxable surplus profits of other shows . . . But the young producer has little patience with shows that prove something less than smash hits . . . He closed "The Naked Genius" when it was making money because he discovered that the theater-going public was disappointed in the Gypsy Rose Lee brain child in which Joan Blondell was starred.

ANOTHER WONDER-BOY, Danny Kaye, the comedian, has a 12-room apartment overlooking Park ave. now . . . It is not many blocks distant from Mr. Todd's Park ave. penthouse . . . The family was surprised at Helen Cohan's reported marriage to a singer named William Carola. The youngest daughter of George M. Cohan played the ingenue lead in the role of Will Rogers' screen daughter in "Lightnin'" . . . She is living in Long Island, and is a neighbor of her sister, Mary, who is married to George Ronkin, the maestro. They have two daughters and a young son . . . George M. Cohan, Jr., is taking refresher courses in singing and dancing. The only son of the late Yankee Doodle Dandy is cast in the role his father created in "Forty Five Minutes From Broadway," which is to have a West Coast revival.

JACK DEMPSEY'S bar on Broadway is a small mint. Strictly "tourist," and not for the fashionable trade, the Dempsey emporium gets little publicity, but the outlanders jam it from opening to closing time . . . The Dempsey name undoubtedly has appeal . . . Benny Gaines, the Bostonian who has become a Floridian, recognized its value when he named his Vanderbilt Hotel, the Dempsey-Vanderbilt . . . But whatever happened to that rye whiskey which was launched a few years ago with considerable tub-thumping under the trade name of "Dempsey's Rye?"

THE VERY BEST STEAKS you can buy in New York are served at Frankie and Johnnie's, the little walk-in-a-flight, former speakeasy at W. 45th st. and Eighth ave. . . . That "best steaks in town" phrase has been done to a turn, we know . . . But Frankie and Johnnie's product tastes like the prewar, aged steer beef so plentiful in the pre-boom days . . . Johnnie Richmond, the proprietor, will not thank us for a paragraph in praise of his food in the stuffy, smokey restaurant with a kitchen exposed to view right in the middle of the place . . . Business is so tremendous that new customers are discouraged . . . But if you get there at 5:30 for an early dinner, you will not be inconvenienced by the crush of other patrons, and you will thank us for recommending you.

CAROL BRUCE is a hot prospect for the movies again, and so is Collette Lyons, the Greater Boston comedienne. The girls got their big break at the same time and in the same show, "Show Boat" . . . Perry Como's recording of "Huba, Huba, Huba," the Jimmy McHugh (of Jamaica Plain) novelty number, has sold 800,000 discs to date . . . Prediction: In April, these two songs will begin building into hit parade leaders, "I Didn't Mean a Word I Said," and "Someboy's Walkin' in My Dreams" . . . Both are by Composer McHugh, the best-selling songwriter in the business, and Harold Adamson, the Harvard man who writes lyrics to Jimmy's tunes . . . The numbers are part of an impending picture, "Doll Face."

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Garbo's close friend and adviser, Gaylord Hauser, has developed a burning interest in a beautiful blonde Boston socialite . . . Tony Martin's yen for Rita Hayworth, which has the Hollywood gapers stretching their necks in all the dancing places, isn't a new thing. It's a revival—dates 'way back to the days when they made a picture together . . . Tip to city editors: Get the story on the robbery of $200,000 in cash from a safe in the garment center. The thieves, a group of youngsters, have been caught—but the owner of the money denies it is his . . . Nora Kaye, the ballerina recently divorced in Mexico, will waltz down the aisle with Arthur Laurents in the near future . . . Robert Andrews, author of the fiction hit, "Burning Gold," is critically ill in a west coast hospital . . . Cary Grant and Joan Crawford are a sudden Mocambo combo. It took them all this time to discover each other!

THERE'S A great behind-the-scenes battle in the Navy Department over whether to abolish the WAVES . . . Decca records are dropping several famous bands because their discs haven't been selling. The names would startle you . . . Prince Michael Evlanoff's new romance with a pretty society belle has been nipped in the bud by the prospective bride's advisers. He formerly was wed to Elizabeth Arden . . . Several Hollywood studios are pretending to think that "Pappy" Boyington would make a great actor . . . Note on a Pulitzer Prize winner: William Saroyan's Christmas gift to his wife, Carol, was 50 nightgowns . . . The jewelry and fur businesses are due for a federal going-over soon, with a big name case to start the ball—and news stories – rolling.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN is preparing to name two women to highly important government posts . . . Town's biggest feud is the one backstage at "Show Boat" between Collette Lyons and Reggie Hammerstein . . . Russell Hardie may land the Ralph Bellamy role in the Chicago company of "State of the Union."

Radar Finds Sun 13 Million Degrees Hot

SYDNEY, Jan. 31 (AP)—Australian scientists using radar have calculated "apparent" temperatures in the sun ranging from 1,000,000 to 13,000,000 degrees centigrade, an Australian radiophysicist said today.

Dr. E. G. Bowen, deputy chief of radiophysics of the Australian Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, said previous calculations of the sun's surface temperature—about 6000 degrees centigrade—were not disputed by the new research.

"We believe we were reaching through holes in the surface of the sun to the interior to measure these apparent temperatures, or else there might have been some phenomenon such as atomic disintegration," he explained.

(Temperatures at the center of the sun have been estimated at from 30,000,000 to 60,000,000 degrees.)

He said the usual temperature recorded over the past two to three months of observations was 1,000,000 degrees. The higher temperatures, Dr. Bowen added, were closely related to the appearance of sunspots and apparently were caused by "a terrific blowout of energy."

Had No Warning Japs Might Hit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) —The 1941 naval air commander in Hawaii testified today he did not learn of a war warning sent from Washington Nov. 27, 1941, until days after the Japanese attacked Dec. 7, 1941.

V. Adm. P. N. L. Bellinger told the Senate-House committee that during October, November and December of 1941 his only information concerning U. S. relations with Japan and the imminence of war "came from the Honolulu newspapers."

Bellinger was called by the committee to explain why no long-range reconnaissance planes were out Dec. 7 to catch the Japanese carriers stealing up on Pearl Harbor.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (INS)—Thirteen women close to the United Nations Organization, under the leadership of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, drafted an open letter to the women of the world today, asking them to take an active interest in the organization.

Decision to issue the appeal was reached at an informal meeting of women UNO delegates in Mrs. Roosevelt's hotel sitting room Wednesday night.

"The last thing I remember is telling my wife I forgot to bring home her Ex-Lax!"

Let that be a lesson to you, Sir! "Forgetting" is no excuse. You should know by now that people who have ever used Ex-Lax just hate to be without it. And for good reason! Aside from its good chocolate taste, Ex-Lax is so dependable. It's effective, yet effective in a gentle way. Not too strong, not too mild, Ex-Lax is the "Happy Medium" laxative. As a precaution, use only as directed.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Prior to my entry into the Army in March, 1941, I was a resident of Washington, D. C. First assignment was Ft. Devens where I later brought family and took up legal residence. Since 1943 I have voted in Massachusetts and while overseas cast absentee ballot from Bay State. Am I eligible for State bonus? J. E., Ayer.

A—Must have been resident of this state for six months prior to entry into service in order to apply for state bonus. It will be necessary for you to determine from D. C. authorities credit on your enlistment.

Q—I was recently given an honorable discharge after serving 39 months. My discharge papers state that I am eligible for $300 mustering out pay although my service was confined to this country. Do I get the extra $100 due to length of service, or is it a typist mistake? W. S., Hyde Park.

A—You are entitled to $200 mustering out pay. No doubt there has been an error in typing out discharge, but you will only receive a check for $100 a month after discharge plus $100 at time of separation from service.

Q—How long does a father of two children, now overseas, remain in Army of Occupation? Also how does a person apply for a dependency discharge? R. L., Cambridge

A—Difficult question to answer, not having full facts before me. Relative to dependency discharge, suggest you contact the Personal Affairs Officer, First Service Command, 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston.

Q—I would greatly appreciate information regarding the amount of bonus granted World War II vets by the State of Texas. L. R V., Fargo Barracks.

A—Texas has not passed any bonus bill as yet. The Legislature of that state has several bills before it, and action is expected within a month or two.

Q—I was inducted into the Army, Jan. 17, 1941, and discharged Dec. 6, 1941. Again in August, 1943, I was re-inducted and served until December, 1943, receiving honorable discharge under Sec. II. Discharge read: Prior service: None." I received mustering-out pay. Can I collect mustering-out pay on the first discharge? C. J. Bickford, Me.

A—Mustering out pay is paid only once. Discharge should have prior service record.

Q—My husband is returning from overseas under the Army's "red apple" enlistment program. I would like to know if he will be shipped back again after his furlough has ended. He re-enlisted for one year. E. S., Roxbury.

A—Army authorities state it is possible for him to be shipped overseas again.

Q—My husband was discharged Jan. 10. Will I get a final allotment check the first c[illegible]
A. S., Charlestown

A—Yes.

Q—My husband will be discharged from the Coast Guard when the points drop Feb. 2 How much money will he receive in cash if he decides to re-enlist?

A—Your husband, if he re-enlists, will receive $300 mustering out pay in a lump sum. $100 State bonus, $150 shipping-over money if he has served three years, and transportation money at the rate of 5 cents per mile to the location where he is spending his re-enlistment leave.

Q—Do the same edu[illegible] ben-efits offered by the Army and [illegible] Corps

A—Yes. All services benefit equally under the GI Bill.

Q—I am one of the many thousands of soldiers that re-enlisted under the Army's so-called "red apple" enlistment program. I have travel pay due me and need same as soon as possible. Living in Greater Boston where might I seek above payment? J. C., Waltham.

A—If you apply to Personal Affairs Branch, First Service Command, 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston, your case will be taken care of

'Bells' Starts 6th Big Week

"The Bells of St. Mary's," starring Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman in Leo McGarey's glorious film classic, is remaining on the Keith Memorial screen for a sixth record-breaking week.

Boasting an all-star cast, headed by Academy Award winners Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman, "The Bells of St. Mary's" reveals the plight of a shabby parochial school, and how, through the simple faith of the nuns of St. Mary's is saved.

Henry Travers, Joan Carroll, William Gargan, Martha Sleeper, Ruth Donnelly and Una O'Connor complete the cast. John Kiley at the organ, plus the latest Walt Disney color cartoon are added to this program.

SPELLBINDING is the word for Ingrid Bergman's performance in "Spellbound," which goes into its second week on Loew's twin screens today. Co-star Gregory Peck's portrayal is another masterful achievement.

British Film to Show Radar Development

"Top Secret," a story of the development of Radar from its discovery in 1935 through the next ten eventful years, is the next production announced for Two Cities Films in England. Ralph Richardson, a favorite with American audiences, will be starred in the film, which is in no sense a documentary although there is, of necessity, some technical detail. This is, however, interspersed with the very human story of the five scientists involved in the great development.

"BOOTS, BOOTS, marching up and down again" . . . Today we have in mind the woman who is on her feet and fairly active most of the day. The salesgirl . . . woman floorwalker . . . housewife . . . the girl who stands the greater part of the day at filing cabinet . . . the errand girl . . . the girl behind the soda fountain or counter.

She's got to have strength to keep moving . . . to tote her body around here and there within the confines of her job. She can't eat like a chicken and retain her vitality for her work. She must have nourishing food.

And to sustain her . . . she must have three satisfying, nourishing meals. But there's no question about it . . . if we want to feel full of pep . . . ready for life and living . . . we must eat the proper foods. The essential foods that make for physical stamina are usually not the foods that make for fat. And no sporadic eating for her. They must be timed and tasty.

Because America is a potpourri of many peoples whose ancestors have come from virtually every country in the world . . . naturally all people can't be expected to eat alike. They have their favorite dishes . . . foods akin to their heritage . . . and who are we to say they shouldn't continue to have them? They don't have to change their eating habits. All they must do to keep healthy is to supplement the foods of their fathers with the essential foods the body requires. And when you're dieting . . . you've got to go light on these "heavies."

So in this blueprint for the moderately active woman . . . we simply schedule a skeleton outline of the daily essential requirements the body must have. How you fill the menu is your own choice. It doesn't take any mastermind to conclude that if you are prone to avoirdupois and you continue to stuff yourself with starches and fats and sweets you'll gain weight. Yet eaten in proper amounts and at the proper time . . . they serve their purpose in building energy for the body.

But just remember one thing. If you are overweight and the obesity is not due to any glandular or organic cause . . . you are eating more than your daily requirements . . . more than the body can handle in the ordinary routine channels. When a woman gets down to normal weight . . . the weight that is right for her age, height and bone structure . . . and continues to eat a well-balanced, protective diet adequate for the expenditure of her physical energy . . . she should not put on the pounds.

And so we come to the second group . . . that category in which a girl is fairly on the go in her work and needs more body nourishment than her sister who is of the fairly still classification. Not too much more, however . . . a little more protein, a simple dessert, a little more milk.

Here is your blue print:

BREAKFAST: fresh fruit or fruit juice; enriched or whole wheat bread with butter (toast if you prefer it) OR cereal, cooked or dry, with whole milk; eggs or meat or some other protein food (cottage cheese for your toast, for instance); coffee or milk.

LUNCH: vegetable plate with both yellow and green vegetables OR fruit or vegetable salad; bread with butter; fruit, pudding or some other simple dessert (we listed the caloric values of popular desserts two days ago); coffee, but more frequently milk.

DINNER: meat, fish, fowl or other protein food, such as eggs, cheese, dried beans and the like; one cooked vegetable and one or more raw vegetables (maybe as a salad); bread with butter; fruit, custard or pudding, or some other simple dessert; milk, coffee or tea.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American, we'll outline the heavy meal schedules for the individual who does a hard, heavy physical job.

Use Throat Cream Plus For Velvety Neckline

THERE MUST BE SOMETHING to the psychiatric claim of the power of suggestion. For don't you want to stroke your throat and be self-assured that it is as smooth and swan-like as the graceful and fragile stem of a crystal glass resting in your hand?

Whatever prompts this reflex act . . . the motive is good providing you're guided by the result of your touch. Whether you make the comparison this way . . . or by gazing into the mirror . . . something should be done for the connecting beauty link between your face and your figure . . . if you find an expanse of withering, lined skin alienating the total appeal.

Crepiness of throat is not always a by-product of age. Many young women today are discovering the taunting ridges encircling their throat . . . perhaps due to excessive skin dryness, neglect or lack of consideration.

For a throat cream plus . . . one that is chock full of youthifying elements which only a withering throat could appreciate . . . there is a famous-name product which you'll find is absorbed by the throat tissues to soften the lines and undate your neckline. Use it at least 15 minutes before you go to bed . . . and when you are ready to pile in between the sheets . . . there will be practically none left on the throat skin . . . proof sure that the throat was thirsting for this nourishment.

For the name of this throat cream plus, phone the Beauty Desk, LIBerty 4000, or write Ruth Mugglebee, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Vitamins in Cabbage

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

THE LOWLY CABBAGE is probably the most universal of all green vegetables—and in spite of the jokes we make about it, a whole cook book could be filled with recipes of delicious cabbage dishes, to be found in almost every country in the world.

Cabbage rates high in vitamin C. In fact, it is in the same top class with citrus fruits and tomatoes. A cup of raw cabbage may furnish nearly half the day's vitamin C needs, provided the cabbage is prepared when fresh and served promptly. At mealtime it may also add to the day's vitamin B supply, as well as calcium, and some vitamin A.

The less you cook cabbage or expose cut cabbage to the air, the more vitamin C you retain. Therefore, to keep its food value and sweet fresh flavor, cook it quickly. Five to 10 minutes of boiling does the trick for shredded cabbage, and 10 to 15 minutes for quartered cabbage.

BOILED CABBAGE

Quarter the cabbage. Start cooking in just enough briskly boiling, lightly salted water to prevent cabbage sticking to pan. cover the saucepan and cook cabbage until just tender, about 10 to 15 minutes.

For variety, add 1 cup of medium white sauce to each 2 cups of cooked cabbage and the cooking liquid. Use the liquid in which the cabbage has been cooked in place of part of the milk in making the white sauce, if you like.

To make a cheese sauce, add 1 cup of cheese (¼ lb.) shaved thin, when the white sauce has heated and become smooth, and stir until the cheese melts.

Popular in Middle America is a simple yet sophisticated cabbage soup, prepared in the French style with a bouillon base and served with a liberal sprinkling of fine dry grated cheese.

CABBAGE SOUP WITH CHEESE

6 bouillon cubes
5 cups boiling water
2 cups shredded cabbage
¾ cup chopped onion
¾ cup chopped carrot
½ tsp. salt ⅛ tsp. pepper
6 tbsp. grated dry cheese
Paprika

Dissolve bouillon cubs in water. Add cabbage, onion, carrot, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Pour into soup bowls. Sprinkle each serving with 1 tablespoon of grated cheese and a dash of paprika. Makes 6 large servings.

Note: Six cups of well seasoned soup stock may be substituted for the bouillon cubes and boiling water. If stock is used, it may be necessary to change the amount of salt and pepper called for in the recipe.

CABBAGE ROLLS

Wash fresh green cabbage leaves and wilt them in hot, lightly salted water until they are limp enough to roll. For a stuffing, make a meat mixture such as is used in stuffed peppers. Put some of the mixture on each cabbage leaf and roll it up. Place the rolls in a baking dish, add hot gravy or a very little hot water, cover the dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for about ¾ hour or until the cabbage is tender.

STUFFING

Mix chopped or ground cooked meat with bread crumbs, cooked rice, or mashed potatoes. Add melted fat, an onion chopped fine, and moisten with gravy, milk, chili sauce, or catsup. Salt and pepper to taste.

CABBAGE SLAW

Cut cabbage in quarters, wash thoroughly in cold water. Drain, shred, and set aside in a cold place until crisp. Pour hot or cold salad dressing over the crisp cabbage and stir until well mixed. Following fat-thrifty dressings:

SOUR CREAM DRESSING
(Needs no cooking)

Whip ½ cup sour cream, then gradually stir in the following mixture: 1 tbsp. sugar, ¼ tsp. salt, a little pepper, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, and 2 tbsp. vinegar.

COOKED SALAD DRESSING

Beat together 1 or 2 eggs and 3 tbsp. of vinegar until smooth. Add the other ingredients, 1-3 cup milk, 1 tbsp. table fat, ½ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. sugar, ½ tsp. mustard, and a dash of paprika and ½ tsp. celery seed, if desired. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until the mixture has just thickened (about as thick as heavy cream). This makes ¾ cup.

Helen Russell to Wed

By BETTY ALDEN

LT. (JG) HELEN RUSSELL, post deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Russell of Charles River sq., is getting out of the WAVES this week just in time to put the finishing touches on plans for a trans-continental plane hop to her wedding Feb. 16 in California.

Her engagement to Lt. Com. Charles Allegrown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allegrown of Pittsfield, is announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Russell, who are flying to California with the bride-to-be. The wedding will be in the Naval Chapel at San Diego where Lt. Com. Allegrown is stationed.

Helen Russell

When Helen receives her discharge from the WAVES she will have been in Navy blue just short of three years. She is a graduate of Winsor and Radcliffe and was a secretary at Massachusetts General Hospital and Red Cross Motor Corps driver before entering the WAVES. She has three sisters, none of whom will be able to attend the wedding. Margaret is at Rollins College, Annie at the U. of Chicago and Olivia, wife of a Pittsfield Navy officer, Edward S. Willis, is with him in Washington.

MRS. CHARLES H. BUTCHER of Cambridge pinch-hit for her daughter, Mrs. Richard G. Eberhart (Betty Butcher), at the Frontier Nursing Service luncheon yesterday so she can write her daughter the latest news of the service for which Betty once worked as volunteer courier. Betty and her Navy husband, who was formerly on the faculty of the Cambridge School, are in Alameda, Cal.

Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, charming and dynamic founder and director of the Frontier Nursing Service, was guest of honor at the luncheon. She illustrated her annual report with color slides of the Kentucky mountain peasants who benefit from the modern medical aid and hospitals which the F. N. S. provides.

Many society girls who have been couriers, riding over the narrow mountain trails on horseback to carry medical equipment for doctors and nurses, were at the luncheon. Among them were post debs Polly Long and Frances Baker.

Attractive Ruth Bosson of Cambridge was a very interested guest since she is thinking seriously of volunteering as a courier.

THE WIVES of AMG officers were there. Mrs. Benjamin Thorndike of Dedham, whose husband is just back in civvies, attended with Mrs. Robert Almy. Mrs. Charles Howard, former president of the Women's Republican Club and wife of an American Military Governor in Vienna, was in a trio with Mrs. Robert C. Terry and Mrs. Robert M. P. Kennard who wore a gay little fuchsia and black feathered hat with her black wool suit that has bright inserts of blue and fuchsia faille.

Mrs. Edwin Cave in soft gold wool and a fetching half hat of gold brown and orange feathers, was with her sister, Mrs. F. Wadsworth Busk, who wore violet wool and a beige ostrich hat.

ADMIRAL and MRS. FELIX GYGAX were head-table guests, trading reminiscences with Mrs. Breckenridge, whose brother, a distinguished Kentucky general, was a college friend of the admiral. Mrs. Gygax wore a French blue wool dress with a gray Persian coat and hat. Mrs. Reginald Smithwick, in black with pearls, was chairman and Rev. Cornelius Trowbridge toastmaster.

'Unbeaten' Japs Seen as Menace

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Signs of resentment and sullen anger of tens of thousands of "unbeaten" repatriated Japanese have appeared in the home islands and present a potential menace to occupation forces, the Canadian member of the Far Eastern advisory commission, Col. L. M. Cosgrave, said today.

The "unbeaten" Japanese, he said, mainly consist of demobilized troops from China.

"Remember they were never beaten in China. They never saw the Allied power that was demonstrated to Japs coming back from other Pacific regions. They had been swaggering top dogs for years, accustomed to lording it over everyone.

"Now they are back as ordinary citizens. Instead of a lot of power and money they are unemployed, ignored by other Japanese and perhaps soon will become hungry. They may attempt to stir up trouble."

The Fuzzy Soldier Who Got Life Imprisonment

By AUSTEN LAKE

HERE'S HARSH JUSTICE, if justice at all. It's the strange case of a Dorchester soldier, who was an ex-Boston policeman, 45-year-old father of a grown family, and son of a Boston business man. He has been serving a LIFE SENTENCE since 1942 for armed robbery in Louisville, Ky.

Austen Lake

I have investigated the soldier's Boston background. I have the court testimony beside me as I write and its judgment by a Boston lawyer. It shows that the soldier was convicted more or less on circumstantial evidence, plus the identification by a Louisville taxi driver, himself with a past police record, who said the soldier robbed him of $14 at pistol point at night.

The soldier never had a previous police record or any Army court-martial, though addicted to periodic bouts with alcohol. He was defended by a young Louisville attorney assigned by the court. No defense witnesses were called other than the soldier. The police found no gun either at time of arrest, which was made within 10 minutes after the robbery, or later.

The robbery occurred during a stormy night after a brief ride through dimly lit streets. Yet the jury accepted the taximan's assertion that the soldier was "the bird" and that, although the driver admitted a high state of agitation so that his "knees were shaking" he had the calm perception to identify the brief muzzle-tip of a gun pressed against his ribs as an "automatic."

So, although the soldier testified he didn't own a gun of any sort, the jury accepted the taximan's deposition and ruled it "armed robbery." Then the court sentenced the soldier to LIFE.

The Currency Was "Faced Up"

THERE WAS MORE to it than that! For the taximan, with a curious pertinence for facts, kept volunteering repetitiously that he had "faced up" his 10 or 12 one-dollar bills which he had collected in fares and stowed in his wallet. And in their turn the police officers said they found 11 one-dollar bills on the soldier, wadded in a lump. But when unravelled all were "faced up." The crumpled currency, having been a month in possession of the police and prosecution, was exhibited in court.

These few uncertain circumstances, plus the taximan's dark-of-night identifications were the basis for condemning the soldier to LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

Nor did any person file an appeal, thereby denying the soldier his right to review by higher court with the possibility of a new trial. The Army officers at Bowman Field appear to have left the man flat. The Kentucky authorities refused to entertain a plea from the soldier's parents for parole. The Louisville district attorney rejected clemency, although it has been claimed that he offered the soldier a pretrial compromise of FIVE YEARS if he would plead guilty, which the soldier refused. And although since then soldiers' parents say the trial judge and foreman of the jury have admitted to them that a miscarriage of justice occurred, there the matter rests.

A running synopsis of the story, as revealed by the court transcript, is this. The time was 1:55 a. m. on Nov. 10, 1942. A taxi driver named Albert S. Thomas was cruising for late fares when a soldier with an Air Force patch on his shoulder hailed him. The soldier sat down in the front seat and directed the driver to roll aimlessly through the streets.

Suddenly, the taximan said, the soldier threw his left arm around his neck and squeezed it in the hollow of his elbow. With the left hand, the driver said, the soldier drew what appeared to be a gun from his right pocket and pressed it against his side. In this cramped position and under what must have been highly emotional stress the driver testified he could study the muzzle tip of a weapon which he identified as an automatic, "because," he said, "I had a gun like that myself for a little while."

Then after forcing the driver to surrender his money ("about 10 or 12 dollars in bills, all faced up, and some silver") the soldier forced the driver out of the cab and drove off in direction of Bowman Field. The driver watched him go and then ran to a saloon where he borrowed a coin to call the police.

Circumstantial Miasma

IN LESS THAN 10 MINUTES a police car and two officers located the cab, with headlight and roof lights ablaze, standing near a roadhouse called "Air Devil Inn." And the only person in sight was a soldier standing "some 20 to 30 feet away." So, with drawn guns, the police approached, frisked him and brought him back.

In the confused testimony a month later the soldier said he had little recollection of what had happened. He had been drinking intermittently during a three-day liberty from camp. He had picked up odd acquaintances who helped him buy several bottles of corrosive hootch. He had slept in a cheap lodging house.

He didn't know Louisville and had only been there three times before. So he wandered around the strange city in a kind of alcoholic fog, meeting strange characters and visiting taverns in a kind of blur. He remembered dimly that he'd run out of ready funds on the second day and was fixing to return to camp. Only he had stopped in a bar and sold a stool-sitter his wrist watch and a ring for $15, which the stranger paid for in odds and ends of cash.

So the soldier said he bought a couple of jolts and stuffed the rest of the money in his pocket. That's all he remembers, he says, until he found himself looking into the muzzle of a police pistol and felt somebody fumbling in his pockets. That's all the defense he could make and all that was made for him.

So, in this circumstantial miasma, he got a LIFE SENTENCE for armed robbery. That's a lot of years in a case where I believe the "rule of reasonable doubt" should apply. It's harsh justice, if justice at all!

Bruins Return to Top With Clapper as Hero

By BILL GRIMES

During the two decades he has been playing pro hockey, Coach Dit Clapper has slowed up physically but his mental reflexes are as keen today as they were when the late Eddie Powers brought him down here from Toronto to play for the Boston Tigers of the old Can-Am League.

About half-way through the opening period last night at the Garden, Joe Cooper, big Chicago defenseman, hit Clapper a solid body-check and the "Old Man of the Mountains" hit the ice. To put it mildly Dit was peeved when he found himself in a horizontal position. Later, he warned Cooper to be on his guard, for at the first opportunity he would get him.

Cooper may not be a mental giant but he was smart enough to keep a weather eye on Clapper for the remainder of the game. Then, early in the third period, Clapper got the puck and raced up the ice with Milt Schmidt on his starboard side. At the Hawks blue line, Dit gave the puck to Schmiddy and set sail for Cooper. Joe must have figured "This is it." He tightened, stood stock still and practically watched Clapper take a return pass from Schmidt and backhand what proved to be the winning goal into the Chicago net.

Clapper's goal not only beat the Hawks by 4 to 3 but it put the Bruins back into first place.

Although Clapper scored the winning goal and turned in a bang-up defensive game, Frankie Brimsek and Mike Karakas, both of whom are products of Eveleth, Minn., co-starred.

Offhand, I cannot recall two goalies giving a better exhibition. They were sensational, with the Chicago net guardian, due to the sharp shooting of the Bruins, having the edge. But for Karakas, the Rossmen would have filled the Hawks' nets.

The game was one of the best ever played at the Garden. From the opening face off, the pace was killing. The going was heavy, for the boys stepped into one another at every opportunity. During the last five minutes all of the players were exhausted. They were practically out on their feet but they still were in there swinging and the outcome was very much in doubt until the final whistle.

Pratt Granted Hearing on Ice Ban

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (AP)—Walter "Babe" Pratt's appeal for a hearing on his expulsion from organized hockey has been granted by Mervyn "Red" Dutton, president of the National Hockey League. Dutton said it was not yet decided whether the hearing would be held before a special meeting of the board of governors or at the board's scheduled meeting in New York Feb. 15.

Pratt, star Toronto defense player, was expelled Tuesday on charges he violated the rules against gambling. He denied he had done anything prejudicial to the game.

Pitt Aides Quit If Boss Stays

PITTSBURGH, Jan 31 (AP)—Pittsburgh football cauldron was bubbling today with the resignations of all three of the school's assistant coaches—but there's an "if" attached.

The trio—Doc Hartwig, Bobby Hoel and Stan Olenn—told Athletic Director James Hagan yesterday that they "do not care" to continue coaching if Clark Shaughnessy comes back next season as head mentor.

Hagan said the three assistants had tried to resign last Nov. 8, but that he had persuaded them to remain for the rest of the 1945 season. He said their action was referred to the faculty committee on athletics.

Shaughnessy said he had no official word of the resignations, and added that he would not quit as head coach.

"I'm not mad at anybody. I still think I can produce a winner here," declared the T-formation authority who has coached Pitt grid teams through three unhappy wartime seasons.

He was asked if he thought he'd have any trouble getting a new staff of assistants.

"Trouble?" he scoffed. "Why, do you know I could have had assistants come here and work for nothing?"

The assistants who resigned made it clear either Shaugnessy goes or they go.

The three assistants were teammates at Pitt in the seasons of 1932, '33 and '34, with Hartwig captaining the eleven in his senior year. He was a guard, while the other two were tackles.

Girl Athletes' Attire Assailed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Exploitation of women's athletic teams by commercial concerns was condemned by Miss Helen M. Dauncey of New York, of the National Recreation Ass'n.

In a talk at the 28th National Recreation Congress, Miss Dauncey noted a tendency to dress women and girl baseball and softball teams "in as few clothes as possible.

She advocated a reduction in big-time competition among girl teams, modest clothing at all times, and less travel to the contests. Games among women, she said, should be more of a social nature.

Improved Owl Five Meets HC at Garden

Boston basketball fans will see another outstanding attraction tonight when Temple plays Holy Cross and New York University tangles with Boston College at the Garden.

Despite Temple's record, which is only six wins against five defeats, the Owls from Philadelphia have beaten some of the best teams in the country while being only nipped in the games they have lost. The outstanding win they have registered has been over last year's national champions, Oklahoma A. & M. 38 to 36.

This is an improved team that will face the Purple, for during the past week the Owls have been bolstered by the return of three war veterans who were regulars before going into the armed forces. The recent additions are Jack McLaughlin, 6-3 goal getter of the 1942-43 squad; Max Wharton, 6-3 junior, and Billy Becktloff who played in 1941.

The Violets of NYU, who meet the Bee Cee quint, have been beaten only once this year and are rated third nationally. Their only defeat was at the hands of North Carolina, 43 to 41.

M'Mitchell Says Hansenne Best Foreigner Indoors

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (INS)—Les MacMitchell, top miler of the country and assistant registrar of New York U., was chatting about the business of running the mile. He said: "This French runner, Marcel Hansenne, looks better than any of the European runners who have tried indoors here. He seems serious about his work and is in good shape. He has a wonderful carefree attitude toward running.

"Up at West Point last Saturday he ran well in a sort of exhibition and equalled my time even though he banged into a girl who was crossing the track at one point. He recovered his stride easily and went flying on.

"He's ont afraid of the boards, as most of the runners from Europe are, and also not afraid to speak to people. A real feather-footed fellow, if I ever saw one.

"You know what they did the other night? Well, they took him down to Philadelphia for that meet there, when I won the mile, and they drove him down in an automobile, and they kept all the windows closed and kept smoking big, black cigars so that he'd get used to the smoke.

"One thing I know is that he's a good eater. Guess they didn't have too much food in France the last five years, and he really works well on a steak. He loves milk. The other day he had an orange, and he told me it was the first he'd eaten in five years. You might say that Marcel is catching up on his eating in good style.

"I don't know exactly what I'll do Saturday night in the Wanamaker mile. It might be four minutes flat and it might be four minutes and fifty-five seconds. It depends on how fast I have to go. I'm in good shape and it's nothing wonderful that I am.

"I was on the cruisers Houston and Philadelphia without running practice for a long spell, but since last March I have had time to train. Since November I have been in serious training, seven days a week, about 40 miles a week, nine miles on Saturday and nine more on Sunday.

"I have to be at work here at nine each weekday morning. I get to Ohio field by about five-thirty and jog and gallop from six to seven-thirty. Home for supper at eight-thirty and back her at the desk at nine the next morning."

MacMitchell captured the Wanamaker in 1942, the year he won eight out of nine races, losing only to Gil Dodds in the National A. A. U. mile in 4:08.3, when Dodds caught MacMitchell napping with his great stretch drive. The next two times they met, Les won in 4:08 and in 4:07.8.

Dressen Praises Rookie Pitcher

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Coach Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers, less than 24 hours after his return from a USO baseball tour of the Pacific area, headed for Florida today, singing the praises of a rookie pitcher named Joe Hatten.

Tossing a few bouquets in the general direction of Dodger pitcher Kirby Higbe, whose Manila Dodgers were whipped by the touring all-stars in five of seven starts, Dressen really warmed up on the subject of Hatten.

"I worked out with him in California the other day," raved Chuck. "He showed me he is a big leaguer right now. What a sweetheart of a curve ball, what a fast one . . . wait until those Giants see him."

Playing 22 games in Manila, Guam and points west, Dressen and his crew of athletes, including Whitey Kurowski, Red Barrett and Frankie McCormick, won 17 and drew 33,000 to one game, the second night tilt ever played in the Islands.

Ice Player Who Lost Eye Gets $7586

Eddie Brown, St. Louis defenseman who lost his right eye in a hockey accident, received $7586 from the proceeds of last night's American League contest between the Flyers and the New Haven Eagles in St. Louis. The Eagles won, 3-2.

The Flyers' management had arranged to give Brown a percentage of the gate receipts, with a minimum guarantee of $5000. The player was injured in a game at New Haven several weeks ago.

Skiers Should Squat Says Green Coach

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Skiers! Do you want to get those legs in shape—durable enough to dive in a dizzy descent down a trail for a couple of miles, without those knees turning into egg beaters or strings of spaghetti? Okay! Hark to this rule from Walter Prager, coach of the Dartmouth ski team:

"Assume a squatting position every day, and hold it for 15 minutes," he told us, while chatting at a recent meet. "Read the newspaper while in this pose. Those legs will ache at first, but they'll soon harden up, with muscles and tendons ready to take any testing terrain on the boards!"

Walter conditions members of his squad in this manner, and his outfit is one of the best in the country. The boys hope to win top honors in their own carnival at Hanover, N. H., Feb. 8-10.

Coach Prager directed ski teaching at Camp Hale, Col., and saw action aplenty with the famed 10th Mountain Division, helping to drive the Nazis from the Apenenines of Italy . . . "It was real rugged going here," said he, "but we had some fun at times. Our gang once wanted to capture a town near Mt. Chamonix, since this spot had a big ski lift!"

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: Having a hickory work-out the other day on the slopes of the Winchester Golf Club, we saw two lads bicycle up, their skis strapped to the sides of the bikes! . . . Why couldn't golf be played on skis in the winter, using balls painted red?

Two former Air Corps vets, Bob Allard and Jack Kenney, have opened Tamarack Lodge, at the Kinsman Mountain slopes, in Franconia, N. H. This abode is only 20 minutes from Cannon Mountain, also offering good skiing in its own backyard . . . We recall clambering up this peak over a decade ago, then miraculously negotiating the narrow, winding trail on slats that had toe straps. When we wished to stop, we headed for a tree!

Back in the skiing sun in the Pleasant Mt. Development, about six miles from Bridgton, Me. After a war lull, two tows are rolling, and the Wayshego Trail, a mile run that has a 1300-foot vertical descent, is attracting many skiers.

Cesario Shoots For Top Billing

The turning point of his career may be reached when Johnny Cesario meets Gus Mell in the feature bout of the Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden, tomorrow evening.

Winner of 40 consecutive fights, the North End ringster has everything necessary to continue his line of victories including a fine left hand.

Should Cesario dispose of Mell, he is scheduled to meet more formidable opposition and take his place in the upper brackets.

Cesario has been cleaning up all local competition in fine style but in meeting the hard punching Mell, he is taking on a boy that could shatter his ambitions.

Gus can hit and Cesario will have to be in peak form if he expects to continue his upward surge. A defeat would drop him back several pegs on the ladder.
